Profile

I specialize in front-end development, particularly in ReactJS and Next.js. In addition to front-end technologies, I also have experience with back-end development using Node.js and Django. My education at 1337 School provided me with a strong foundation in C/C++, Dockerization, and Shell (Terminal) scripting. However, the most valuable aspect of my education was learning to collaborate effectively within a team. This experience taught me essential team management skills and how to work harmoniously with others.
